History in the Making at Union County Public Library

January 8, 2014, Monroe, NC - Union County Public Library is pleased to present History in the Making: An African American Portrait of Union County. Members of the community are encouraged to nominate African American leaders and outstanding everyday citizens that are making a difference in our area. The nomination period is Jan. 2 – Jan. 17.

Nomination forms are available at each Union County Public Library location. If selected, nominees will be contacted by a library staff member to schedule a portrait session and to obtain biographical information. The portraits and nominating essays will be on display in each Union County library during the month of February. A reception honoring those selected will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 4.
