Union County Public Library Wins New eReading Room for Kids

July 27, 1014, Monroe, NC - Union County Public Library patrons checked out more than 5,000 eBooks and eAudios from the digital collection in June. This met the 25 percent increase required to win a new eReading Room just for kids, which is valued at more than $3,000.

The library's Digital Library now has a separate website to provide an easy browsing experience for kids. The eReading Room for Kids can be accessed from the home page of the library's Digital Branch.

The Union County Public Library recognizes the need to provide an environment just for kids to browse library materials. "Just as we have a separate section of the physical library designated for children, the eReading Room for Kids provides the same separation in the digital collection," said Nina Meadows, Union County Public Library director. "We are grateful to our patrons who helped us win the eReading Room for Kids."

This new service, powered by OverDrive, is free for users with a Union County Public Library card. Digital titles are available anytime, anywhere and expire automatically, so there is no need to worry about late fees.

OverDrive is a leading multichannel digital distributor of eBooks, digital audiobooks, and supply a secure lending platform for 22,000 libraries, schools and retailers worldwide.
